

From: Degen Playground
To: All NFT Projects on Cronos

Greetings everyone,

I hope you all are in good health and are having a good time. I go by Prinny#0115 on Discord, and there's a high possibility that Hajedan is delivering this proposal to you. Degen Playground is a prediction game decentralized application as well as a protocol. The protocol will allow owners to put their NFTs up as a prize, that participants will gamble for. This will be akin to "NFT lotto" with slightly different mechanics.

Degen Playground is offering 5% of the amount won or lost back to the original creators of the NFT project in DPlay token, similar to a royalty that the project receives from NFT resales. To participate all you have to do is enter into a simple very common partnership and the 5% amount will be sent to the team wallet given to us.

What do we ask in return? Basically, marketing! Let the world know about us! It doesn't have to be daily spam, maybe a simple message once a month. The bulk of the advertising we are looking for would be at the launch of the protocol. Post-launch it'll be back to scheduled messages or whatever you decide.

We also want you to consider a possible project collaboration. A lot of decentralized application teams are too fragmented or quite simply hidden in the shadows. Sometimes they have free time to pursue other projects. We are currently seeking project developers and artists for possible collaboration of ideas and network effect cross integration. We strongly believe in the role decentralization will play in shaping our collective future. Empowering individuals through collaboration is extremely important to us and if there are members of your team with these specific interests we would love to hear from them.

For all intents and purposes I'd like to organize a collective pool of talents, that would draw upon its members for support for various endeavors. At present time, Cronos is not in its best state compared to Fantom, Polygon, etc. Working together to attract more people to Cronos, while challenging as it sounds, will be for the best.

I hope you consider this, and I can't wait to hear from you.

Best wishes,
Prinny
